

Somewhere in England,
Sometime before Xmas, '44

My dearest, darling wife,

This is to wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, under circumstances different from any we have ever experienced. I have no idea where I will be when you receive this, but I want you to know that while you read this, I am thinking of you, loving you, and missing you, more, and more, and more. I remain,

Your G. I. husband,
Johnny