First Lieutenant Ralph W. Kastler, 0354663, Infantry, 347th Infantry Regiment, 87th Infantry Division, United States Army, for extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations in Belgium on 3 January 1945. When his platoon was held up by fire from an enemy machine gun and Tiger Tank, Lieutenant Kastler, with utter disregard for his personal safety, started forward, alone, armed with a bazooka. Crossing a stream and crawling 150 yards across an open field, despite enemy fire, Lieutenant Kastler took position in a nearby building and fired one round from his bazooka striking the Tiger Tank in the tread. The tank turned immediately and fired into the building, then withdrew, permitting the platoon to destroy the machine gun and take its objective. The extraordinary heroism and courageous action of Lieutenant Kastler reflect great credit upon himself and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service. Entered military service from Georgia.

Dillingham, 34195071, Infantry, 67th Armored Regiment, 2nd Armored Division, United States Army, for extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations in Belgium on 28 and 29 December 1944. Knowing there was only one narrow road, heavily guarded by dug-in enemy infantry armed with bazookas, on which to travel, Private Dillingham, acting as tank commander,毫不犹豫地 volunteered to lead an assault to clear a small woods. With his tank traveling at top speed and with all guns firing he succeeded in breaking through a road block which enabled other tanks to advance. This maneuver also completely disorganized the enemy causing them to flee, leaving a large number of their dead and wounded. The extraordinary heroism and courageous action Private Dillingham reflect great credit upon himself and are in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service.
